Early efforts toward evidence-based policing

Speaker: Lawrence Sherman (London Metropolitan Police, UK)

From the Minneapolis Domestic Violence Arrest Experiment to the Washington Repeat Offenders Project, Lawrence Sherman's research at the NPI helped develop the first framework for "evidence-based policing" in his 1998 NPI Lecture. Reflecting on the connectivity between science and practice, Sherman will discuss the global impact of the influential experiments NPI produced through the middle 1980s, spanning his time of affiliation with the National Policing Institute.
