

Universität St.Gallen

The impact of hearings on prosecutorial decision-making

Prof. Dr. Nora Markwalder
Prof. Dr. Martin Killias

*The Stockholm Criminology Symposium
June 19-21 2017*

Background I

- Increasing use of penal orders in Switzerland under the 2011 Code of Criminal Procedure
- Penal orders are convictions issued by prosecutors or legal clerks, not by a judge
- Penal orders are an option only for minor cases:
 - Fines
 - Day-fine penalty (max. 180 days)
 - Custodial sentence (max. 180 days)
 - Sanction can be conditional or unconditional
- Often based on police report only
- No legal requirement to hear defendants or victims in person (only if deemed necessary by prosecutor)
- Defendant can, within 10 days, ask for judicial review; otherwise penal order becomes a final conviction.

Background II

- Advantages:
 - Quick procedure and fast verdict
 - Cheap (short procedure)
- Criticism:
 - Frequently no hearing of offender or victim by prosecutor
 - No further evidence collected, often based only on police report
 - Lack of fundamental procedural rights (right to be heard etc.)
 - Prosecutor issues verdict → lack of judicial control
 - Accused might not understand the penal order
 - Penal orders with higher risk of wrongful convictions
- More than 90% of criminal proceedings in Switzerland end up with a penal order

Research Aims I

- What effects do personal hearings have during the procedure?
- Positive effect of hearings on the defendant?
 - Procedural fairness (having a voice) effects, legitimacy of verdict and acceptance of punishment
 - Punishment perceived more intensively
 - Recognition that one has done something bad / ritual of punishment
 - Specific deterrence: less recidivism?
 - Better understanding of the procedure
- Negative effect of hearings on the defendant?
 - Time consuming for the defendant
 - Procedure resp. prosecutor could be perceived as unfair
 - Criminal identity (labelling) could be strengthened

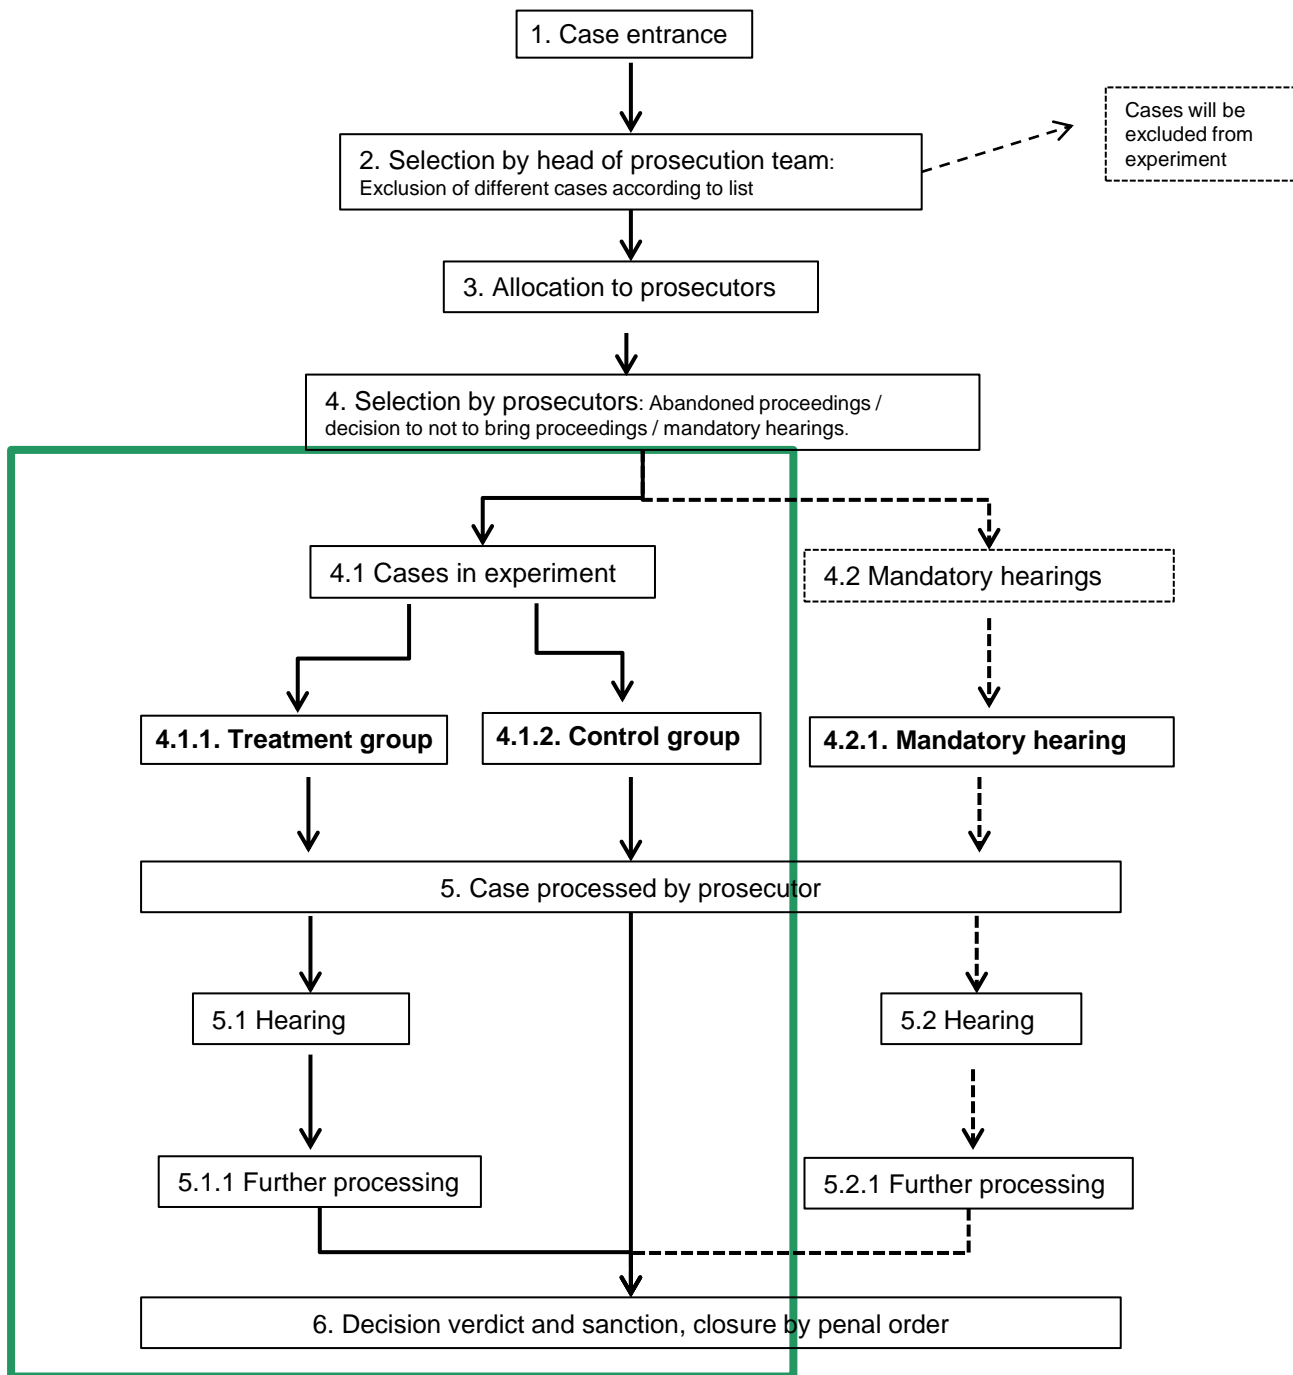

Research Aims II

- Effect of hearings on verdicts?
 - Empathy of prosecutors might mitigate sentences
 - Defendants might bring up mitigating circumstances
- Effect of hearings on victim satisfaction?
 - Possibility for victims to present their view to prosecutors
- Effects of penal orders and hearings are simply not known yet

Research Method I

- Randomised controlled trial (RCT)
 1. Cases enter judicial system
 2. Unsuitable cases are excluded
 3. Cases are distributed to prosecutors & clerks
 4. Software allocates cases to treatment or control group
 - Treatment group: Defendant with personal hearing
 - Control group: No personal hearing
 5. Cases are handled, verdict is passed
 6. Prosecutors and clerks record case information
 7. Once case is settled, questionnaire is sent to offenders resp. victims

- RCT allows for control of multiple factors

Research Method II

- Surveys among defendants (after trial): Independent variables will be
 - Defendants' criminal identity (labelling effects)
 - Defendants' perceived procedural fairness
 - Emotions towards victim among defendants
 - Perceived fairness of punishment
- Survey among victims (after trial)
 - Measure of satisfaction with treatment & verdict
- Survey among prosecutors/clerks (after trial)
 - Measure of emotions / empathy towards offender
- After 24 months: Assessment of reoffending

Preliminary Findings I

- Pilot data collection to evaluate cases
- Data of all penal orders collected from one month (September 2016) in the Prosecutor's Office of St. Gallen
- Gives a first impression of types of cases included in the RCT

Preliminary Findings II

Concerned laws	N	%
Traffic law	149	44.0
«Other» convictions (e.g. criminal code)	107	31.6
Narcotics law	75	22.1
Traffic law & narcotics law	6	1.8
Rest & narcotics	2	0.6
Total	339	100.0

- Over 40% of the cases involve traffic offences
 - Over 20% of the cases involve drug offences
- Basically a lot of minor offenses?

Preliminary Findings III

- 2.4% (8 of 339) cases with appeal
 - 7 of 8 with subsequent reduction of sentence (1 pending)
- 5.9% (20 of 339) with personal hearing
 - Even less than presumed!

Reasons given by prosecutors for personal hearings	N
Defendant on probation for an earlier conviction	5
Interview was seen as necessary to complete investigation	5
Hooliganism	3
Defendant had appealed against penal order	3
Preexisting admonition	1
Reason unclear, possibly the severity of the offence	3
Total	20

- Only 3 out of 8 appeals lead to a personal hearing!

Preliminary Findings IV

Sentences	N	%
Fine	222	65.5
Day-fine penalty in combination with a fine	83	24.5
Day-fine penalty	16	4.7
Custodial sanction	8	2.4
Custodial sanction in combination with a fine	6	1.8
Admonition	2	0.6
Community service	1	0.3
Case still pending	1	0.3
Total	339	100.0

Preliminary Findings V

- Total 14 imprisonments, 8 “pure”, 6 combined with fines

Length of prison sentence (in days)	N
20	1
30	3
40	2
70	1
90	2
150	2
180 (max. for penal order)	3
Total	14

- Wide range in length of prison sentences

Conclusion

- In Switzerland, 90% to 95% of convicted defendants receive a penal order.
- Penal orders mainly concern traffic and drug offences, criminal code offences are rarely handled this way
- The penal order procedure is cheap and fast, but lacks personal contact (only 5.9%) and judicial control
- Very few appeals (2.4%): Not clear if this is due to the undisputed factual base of most convictions, or to the defendant's inability to use his procedural rights?
- Assessing the impact of personal hearings through an RCT is the only way to answer these questions

Thank you for your attention!

For comments and questions feel free to contact us:

nora.markwalder@unisg.ch

martin.killias@unisg.ch

Nora Markwalder
University of St. Gallen (HSG)
Law School
Bodanstrasse 4
9000 St. Gallen
Switzerland